ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

The present invention relates to a high efficiency three-level inverter apparatus containing both bipolar and field effect transistors. An embodiment of a modified control scheme is also presented whereby transistors are modulated differently for each quadrant of output voltage-current phase. This embodiment of a modified control scheme allows efficient switching of field effect transistors without additional freewheeling and series diodes.